Snowy Herefordshire valley, basic topographic survey carried out.

Well its been a very busy January with scour protection surveys, topographic surveys and measured building surveys. The snowy weather meant we had to postpone a couple of things but for the most part surveys continued, with some beautiful cold days in a Herefordshire valley and water course survey in Shrewsbury. February is all but fully booked and with some good quotes also out there.

We carried out a laser scan of this timber cottage inside and out. Not during the snow though!
